This twenty-sixth volume of Research in Organizational Behavior presents a set of well-crafted and thoughtful essays on a series of research topics. They range from efforts to redirect the study of leadership, to analyses of interpersonal relationships, to considerations of cross-cultural issues in organizing work, to discussions of institutional and environmental forces on organizational outcomes. Each of these essays includes a thorough review of the relevant literature, and more importantly, pushes that literature forward with new conceptual analysis and theory. In short, these essays continue the spirit of "rigorous eclecticism" that has exemplified the annual publication of ROB. As a collection, this year's set of essays provides a healthy advance for the field of organizational behavior. They are examples of serious scholarship that extend and challenge our current thinking about organizations and the behavior of its participants. Many of these chapters will take their place among the best presented by the Research in Organizational Behavior series. Revisiting the Meaning of Leadership; When and How Team Leaders Matter; Normal Act of Irrational Trust: Motivated Attributions and the Trust Development Process; Gender Stereotypes and Negotiation Performance: An Examination of Theory and Research; Third-Party Reactions to Employee (Mis)treatment: A Justice Perspective; Subgroup Dynamics in Internationally Distributed Teams: Ethnocentrism or Cross-National Learning?; Protestant Relational Ideology: The Cognitive Underpinnings and Organizational Implications of an American Anomaly; Isomorphism In Reverse: Institutional Theory as an Explanation For Recent Increases in Intraindustry Heterogeneity and Managerial Discretion; The Red Queen: History-Dependent Competition Among Organizations

About the Author Barry M. Staw is the Lorraine T. Mitchell Professor of Leadership and Communication at the Haas School of Business, University of California, Berkeley. He received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University and has previously served on the faculties at the University of Illinois, Northwestern, Iowa, and UCLA. He is the author of more than 60 academic articles and has edited several books on organizational behavior.
